TOMMY WINDSOR'S INSURANCE POLICY

This comedy trick can be carried in your pocket, yet it can be easily seen from the largest stage. It is ALWAYS ready and requires no re-placements. It is suitable for parlor, club or stage and also as a close-up effect. Geo. McAth, originator of the trick has been using it with great success in his own act.

Looks like a standard insurance policy, wrapped in a cellophane envelope. Magician announces that should he fail to correctly name a card to be selected by a spectator, he has taken out INSURANCE that will pay $1,000.00 to the spectator. After a card is selected, and returned to the deck, magician announces the WRONG CARD. He begs for another chance and again is wrong. "Looks like you get $1,000.00," he tells the spectator. "But let's read the policy." When the policy is opened full size (17x22 inches) and turned towards audience, it contains a large picture of the selected card. "Sorry, you don't collect this time," says the magician.
